WED BENEATH LOVERS KNOT

Lewis and Thomp- son Nuptials Are Celebrated.

ALL HONOLULU JOINS ITS HONORS

Hundreds of Guests Take Part in the Merry-Making at New Lewis Home.

In the presence of two score friends Miss Ella Lewis and Frank E. Thompson plighted their troth last evening at the home of the parents of the bride in College Hills. The event was notable, not only as the nuptials of the young folks, but as a house warming for the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lewis was for the first time thrown open and its hospitality enjoyed by the society folk of Honolulu.

It was shortly after 8 o'clock when, to the strains of the wedding march, Mrs. Atwood at the piano, the groom, preceded by the best man, Dr. C. B. High, entered the breakfast room and took station in the alcove, which had been transformed for the ceremony. Two children, the brother of the bride and little Miss Spalding, acting as flower pages, followed, and led by the maid of honor, Miss Lucy Roth, the young bride entered on the arm of her father.

Beneath a bower of greens and flowers, with a true lovers knot of pink ribbon above, the young people stood while Canon Kiteat pronounced the words which made them man and wife, and as the strains of "O Promise Me," sung by Mr. Lovette Rockwell, filled the rooms the heartiest of congratulations were showered upon the groom, and the best of wishes for the future were echoed for the bride by everyone present.

It was one of the prettiest weddings of the year, and everyone joined in the expression of good wishes and congratulations.

The decorations of the house which was thus dedicated to use, for until the ceremony of last evening it had not held a single guest, were simple but in the most exquisite taste. The small room mauka was planned as the wedding bower, and with smilax and malle, carnations and roses, was transformed. Long leis made an artificial ceiling for the room, while along the walls bamboo pierced at the joints and hung along the walls furnished holders for bunches of blooms. The central beam was additionally decorated with the true lover's knot of pink silk ribbon and it was directly beneath this that were placed the prie dieu upon which the young people knelt for the blessing of the priest, with which the ceremony was ended. In all it was a most effective and striking arrangement of flowers and greens.

The bride was costumed in white with applique lace, and wore a veil of tulle, which was caught at the coiffure with orange blossoms, and which was most becoming in its general effect. The mother of the bride wore a costume of white tulle with silver applique figures, and the bridesmaid was gowned in pink organdie over white, trimmed with ribbons, the whole making an effective costume.

After the ceremony the guests invited to the reception began to arrive and the house was soon filled, the marquee on the lawn in which refreshments were served, being in itself a part of the general scheme of decorative effect, and one not forgotten and appreciated by the guests.

Dancing was inaugurated by the newly wedded pair and enjoyed by all until a late hour, the orchestra being moved into the house and every one taking part in the celebration of the event.

The decorations of the house, which attracted universal admiration were designed and executed by Mrs. E. D. Tenney and Mrs. Noonan, and the electrical effects, which attracted the attention of every visitor, were those which had been effected by Mr. Lewis. It was not until a late hour that the guests departed, and the good wishes of all were left as a benediction upon the young people and their home.

Symphony Society Smoker.

The Honolulu Symphony Society gave its second smoker last evening in honor of the birthday of King Edward, at its rooms at the head of Hackfeld street, and there was a large audience present.

President Ernest Kopke made an address of welcome and the club then rendered the following program:

Symphony, in B flat.....Mozart
Symphony.....Hadyn
Fackeltanz.....Meyerbeer
The Lost Chord.....Sullivan
Forge in the Forest.....Sullivan
Storm.....Beschwortung
Full Choir.
Saravande et Tamborin.....Mozart
Prof. Rosen and Pupils.

There were a number of vocal selections by D. W. Anderson, F. Melchers and T. Clive Davies. The committee in charge was composed of B. L. Marx, T. C. Davies, D. W. Anderson and J. L. Cockburn. Consul General Hoare was present and responded to the toast "God Save the King." Refreshments were served on the lawn which was decorated with lanterns and flags.
